

OMINOUS QUIET TODAY ON FRIS- CO WATERFRONT

Strikers Name "Strategy" Board to Direct Movements

San Francisco, July 7.—(AP)—A "brains, not brawn" leadership took over direction today of union labor's fight in behalf of striking longshoremen.

Steel helmeted riflemen of the state's militia patrolled the waterfront, scene of tumult, riot, death and injury in recent days, delegates from 120 unions—representing 45,000 members—voted last night to leave the matter of a general strike in the hands of a "strike strategy committee."

"This strategy committee is the same move now," said John O'Connell, president of the Central Labor Council, "it will lead to organized movement in case of a general strike later and would mean that brains and not brawn would direct us."

With the waterfront district quiet momentarily under the threat of bayonets and bullets for those who riot, President Roosevelt's labor disputes board prepared for public hearings Monday to determine issues, facts and practices in the strike which began May 9 when 12,000 longshoremen struck. The longshoremen have been joined since by some 15,000 allied maritime workers.

Troops Condemned

By a vote of 165 to 8, representatives of the 120 unions voted at a closed meeting last night to support the strategy committee plan after a thundering chorus of "ayes" had adopted a strongly worded resolution of condemnation for use of troops on the waterfront.

While moves for peace were made and talk of more strife was heard, San Francisco hospitals and homes held the scarred victims of Thursday's rioting in which two were killed, 24 shot and scores passed and bruised in violent fighting between police and pickets.

Trouble in Portland

Victory or death was the cry of embattled maritime workers at Portland, where a general strike also has been proposed, as they resisted an attempt to move cargo. Strike pickets, who defied a blinding blast from police tear gas guns to grease railroad tracks leading to the docks, shouted:

"If we let you move this train to the dock, our cause is lost. We're ready to give our lives to prevent it."

In view of predictions by Chief of Police William J. Quinn and others that the arrival of the National Guards in San Francisco might cause further bloodshed, the sudden and complete calm on the waterfront seemed almost to hold an ominous note. Not even a jeer or word of disrespect was made toward the youthful soldiers crouching silently behind their machine guns or walking guard posts with bayonets fixed.

Delegates of the various trades unions in the city met at 3 P. M. today with the joint maritime strike committee to consider the general walkout proposal. Teamsters of San Francisco and Oakland have called meetings for 10 A. M. tomorrow to consider their future policies.

Franklin MacVeagh, Once Secretary of Treasury, Is Dead

Chicago, July 7.—(AP)—A 10-day siege of bronchial pneumonia proved fatal last night to Franklin MacVeagh, 96, former secretary of the treasury.

MacVeagh was born in Phoenixville, Pa., in 1838. He was graduated from Yale in 1862, studied law at Columbia University and was admitted to the New York bar. In 1866, he abandoned his law practice and came to Chicago to establish the wholesale grocery firm of Franklin MacVeagh & Co.

In 1896 he ran for United States senator on the Democratic ticket but was defeated. In 1909 he was appointed secretary of the treasury by President Taft, serving until 1913.

MacVeagh's brother, Wayne, was attorney-general of the United States in the cabinet of President James A. Garfield, and a nephew, Charles MacVeagh, was at one time ambassador to Japan.

His great-nephew, Lincoln MacVeagh, Jr., is now minister to Greece.

Indian Pool Room Proprietor is Held for Action by Federal Court Result of Killing of Candy Agent

Shawano, Wis., July 7.—(AP)—Shawano county authorities today awaited action of federal officials in the case of Joe Wabeno, 65-year-old Indian pool hall operator of Neopit, held in connection with the death of H. E. Taintor, 35, candy company owner, in an Antigo hospital last night.

Police at Keshena where Wabeno first was arrested on an assault and battery charge said he admitted hitting Taintor, formerly of Springfield, Ill., with a club during an argument over a bill of less than $10 for candy. The In-

SEVEN SUBMIT BIDS ON WEST END PAVEMENT

Improvements Board
Opened Proposals
This Morning

Bids on the Lincoln avenue and Fourth street paving projects, submitted this morning at a special meeting of the board of local improvements in the city hall. Four of the bidders submitted combination bids.

Of the combination bids submitted, the E. M. Rocho Construction Company of Freeport was low with a figure of $27,490. Other companies to submit combination bids were the Settle Construction Company of Moline, $29,210.46; the Gund & Graham Construction Co. of Freeport, $31,000; if sand and gravel are shipped in, $28,227; if local sand and gravel are used; and the Zolper & Sons Construction Company of Mendota, $30,750.

D. L. Heagy of Dixon was the low bidder on both the Lincoln avenue project and the Fourth street project. His bid on the Lincoln avenue paving was $15,559.80, and on the Fourth street project, $12,756.24. Other companies to submit bids on both projects but not combination bids were the Weir Construction Company, Moline and the Trompeter & Sons Construction Company of Peru.

The board passed a motion putting the bids on file in the City Clerk's office for inspection until Monday evening at the regular council meeting, when they will meet to award the bids.

TRUCE IN NAZI HIGH COMMAND; HITLER LEAVES

Chancellor to Summer
Home for Vacation:
Surface Quiet

By D. Stefferd
(Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press)

Berlin, July 7.—(AP)—A political truce was put into effect today by the Nazi high command in a determined effort to efface all remaining traces of Germany's bloody "second revolution."

Chancellor Adolf Hitler left for his summer home in the Bavarian Alps for inspiration while his trusted sub-leaders are also taking their first rest since their party's purging of "plotters and traitors."

Two million storm troopers, temporarily stripped of their uniforms, are on a month's vacation. Their future has become Germany's foremost political problem. A powerful political instrument, these peace-time soldiers are being treated as if they might become greater in power than their creators.

Von Papen Smiles

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen when seen at his home today seemed in better spirits, as if reflecting the prevailing tendency toward political peace.

He wore a generous smile which completely masked his feelings regarding recent climactic events which many believed represented his own narrow escape from death.

"My plans are not yet complete," he told The Associated Press. "Everything is still unsettled."

The vice chancellor's home is still under guard but he goes and comes at will occasionally visiting a nearby church for prayer. While party chiefs were gathering new strength, apparently they were letting von Papen's case drop for the moment.

Despite the political truce, the propaganda ministry indicated that special vigilance on all fronts by the secret police will continue undiminished.

No Cabinet Meetings

There was intimation that Chancellor Hitler's short respite in the Bavarian hills may be extended to a possibly longer vacation.

It was announced at the Chancellor's office that no further cabinet meetings are planned during July.

Hitler left exactly one week after he had flown to Munich and begun his grim "purging" of storm troop ranks with firing squads.

Concerning the storm troops, the Nazi leaders issued a careful statement saying that they were inseparable from the Nazi party.

"The work of one would be senseless without the other," the statement said.

Hitler's newspaper, Voelkscher Beobachter, proclaimed that:

"The storm troops are proudly carrying on, and remains loyal to their fuhrer (Hitler). Even in civil-

LEE CO. JUDGE HEARD UNUSUAL STERLING CASE

Judge Leech Takes Peculiar Adoption Matter in Advisement

Judge William Leech of the Lee county court was called to Sterling yesterday by Judge I. L. Weaver of Sterling to hear a habeas corpus proceeding in city court in the case of Charles P. Dow and Selma C. Dow, his wife, for and in behalf of Albert J. Dow, also known as Loman J. Keebler, and Loman J. Cannon vs. George Keebler. The case involves an attempt on the part of Dow and his wife to regain custody of their adopted boy from George Keebler, the legal father of the boy. Judge Leech heard the arguments on both sides and continued the case until July 12, taking the matter under advisement for the purpose of determining the legal status of the boy in question, Loman Keebler.

The history of the unusual case follows: In 1919 George Keebler and his wife were divorced, Keebler being granted custody of their child, Loman, until further order of the court.

In March, 1921, a petition was filed by Fred C. Cannon and wife to adopt Loman Keebler. The father, George Keebler, consented to the adoption; however, his wife, who was divorced, was never served with a summons, and has never consented to the adoption by Canons, it is alleged. The next development was the adoption of Loman Keebler in March, 1922, by Charles P. Dow and wife, Selma from Fred C. Cannon and Catherine Cannon.

Then, according to the bill, Loman Keebler ran away from Dow and his wife in the spring of this year, and went to George Keebler, his legal father. The latest action, resulting in the present hearing, was the filing of a writ of habeas corpus by Dow and his wife for the return of Loman Keebler to them.

Heredity Creeping Paralysis Dooming Two Ohio Brothers

Belmont, O., July 7.—(AP)—The paralysis twist the bodies of the Dietrich brothers into virtual helplessness blames their plight on heredity.

If the theory of Dr. Edward W. Turner, the physician, is correct, Glen W. Dietrich, 16, and his brother, John L., 17, are doomed to death just as seven other sons and daughters of the family have died since 1898.

Today's Almanac:

July 7:
1807—Peace of Tilsit between France and Russia.
1815—The Allies enter Paris.
1898—Hawaii annexed by U.S.
1934—Tourist in Hawaii has picture taken with out wearing one of those things around his neck.

FOUR SUSPECTS IN NEW ARSON RING ARE HELD

Printer Confesses He Hired Men to Burn His Print Shop

Chicago, July 7.—(AP)—Police had four suspects in a new arson ring under arrest today, the second such alleged band to be uncovered in recent weeks.

Assistant State's Attorneys Marshall Kearney and Gordon Nash said Morris Tepper, a printer, confessed to them last night that he hired three men for a 10 per cent commission, to burn his shop so he could collect $3,000 in insurance.

"But there are people living above my shop and that will be a problem," police quoted him as asserting he said to a member of the ring.

"Leave it to me—don't I know my business?" that person replied, according to the confession police said Tepper made.

However, investigators said, it was mere chance that prevented the fire from taking a toll of life, as a family of six, including two small children, found the bottom of the staircase in flames as they reached it.

Others held on the strength of Tepper's statement are William Kamin, contractor; his brother, Nathan, owner of an automobile wrecking company, and Lew Wasserman, an insurance man.

DILLINGER SEEN IN KANSAS AND MASSACHUSETTS

Is "Positively Identified" by People in Remote States Today

Boston, July 7.—(AP)—The state police today sent out a message on their automatic telegraphic printer system to all cities and towns in Massachusetts to be on the lookout for John Dillinger, mid-western bandit. They reported a man resembling Dillinger had been seen traveling over the Boston post road in Palmer in the direction of Boston.

Police said that one of four occupants of a small blue sedan seen passing through Palmer was "recognized" as Dillinger. The car bearing either Missouri or Michigan registration plates, was followed by another machine, also bearing Missouri or Michigan plates, and also containing four men.

IN KANSAS ALSO?

Iola, Kas., July 7.—(AP)—John Dillinger is in Kansas now. Or he was yesterday, insists Frank Boone, filling station proprietor.

Boone reported to authorities that two men, one of whom he "identified positively" as the notorious outlaw, asked him last night where they might find a physician having an office at home. He directed them to St. Joseph's hospital. The men appeared there, but left when they found no physician.

TO ARRAIGN AIDE

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—(AP)—Pat Reilly, arrested in Minneapolis more than a week ago will be arraigned in Federal District Court here Monday on a charge of conspiracy to harbor John Dillinger, George F. Sullivan, United States district attorney here, said today.

Reilly is held in the county jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

HIS YEAR'S RECORD

Indianapolis, July 7.—(AP)—Records of the state automobile license bureau show it was just a year ago that John Dillinger began the maneuvers which eventually placed him in the position as public enemy No. 1.

On July 8, 1933, about a month after his parole from the state prison where he was serving a sentence for robbing a Mooreville store keeper, he purchased a used automobile, the license bureau records disclose.

State police believe several filling station robberies provided the funds for purchase of the car.

Then came the holdup of the Commercial bank at Daleville, Ind., in which $3,500 was taken on July 17. Dillinger has been suspected of participation in this holdup.

Officers who have investigated his career say the funds taken from the Daleville bank financed Dillinger's trip to the Century of Progress Exposition during the latter part of July, 1933.

From the Chicago fair Dillinger motored to Dayton, O., with two women companions, officers say, and made a stop over at Michigan City where preliminary plans were made for the prison break of last September when ten convicts escaped.

One of Dillinger's companions is alleged to have been Mrs. Mary Jenkins Longaker. The other was Miss Mary Ann Bucholz.

The two women visited the prison where Mrs. Longaker's brother, James Jenkins, was an inmate. Jenkins was one of the ten who escaped but a few days after the break he was killed by a Brown county farmer.

"Let me cite just one example of bureaucratic compulsion. The Congress, after a series of laws which practically dried up the capital market, passed a law appropriating 500 million dollars for direct loans to industries needing fresh capital. The loans are to be made by the R. F. C., and this board has just issued regulations which in effect require each borrower to agree in advance not to spend any part of the funds obtained through this loan for 'im-

By Radio, a Historic Picture— Hindenburg and Hitler Weigh Reich's Future

The destiny of a Republic resting on their shoulders, Germany's aged President Paul von Hindenburg (left) and Chancellor Adolf Hitler pose solemnly side by side after the Nazi dictator had flown to Hindenburg's summer home, Neudeck to deliberate on the crisis precipitated by the "Reich revolution." This historic picture of their meeting, the first since Hitler's bloody purging, was flown to London and thence radioed to the United States.

Congress Has Weakened Democracy By Surrender of Power, Says Fletcher

Republican National Chairman Address- es Michiganders

Jackson, Mich., July 7.—(AP)—Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, in an address prepared for delivery before a gathering of Republicans observing the 80th anniversary of the birth of their party today said that Congress "under the influence of a combination of fear and fascination has undermined democracy and weakened representative government by surrendering its law-making power to the President."

He said Congress had yielded to the President "power and authority comparable only to those possessed by Mussolini and Hitler," and added:

"The President has in turn delegated the control of the livelihood, business and property of the individual American citizen to a vast maze of theorizing, meddling, directing, spending, lending and borrowing agencies, lettered on the Russian model."

"New Deal Costly"

The new deal, the Republican chairman added, "has cost to date seven billions of dollars, has authorized the expenditure of at least twenty billions more. The government faces the greatest deficit in its history, x x x Every dollar on both these budgets (ordinary and extraordinary expenditures) must be paid by the people of the United States or repudiated by the United States government."

Fletcher charged the Democratic administration with taking "the first steps to emasculate" the constitution.

"We are told," he said "that what the party in power has done is a mere suspension of the constitutional guarantees, that a great economic emergency has merely rendered the constitution 'resilient.' This adjective alone is a confession of the doubtfulness of the measures taken."

RIOTING BROKE OUT ANEW TODAY IN AMSTERDAM

Six Deaths Reported in Fighting Started by Unemployed

Amsterdam, July 7.—(AP)—Rioting, thought to have been checked with the arrival of additional soldiers and police, broke out anew today resulting in two more deaths, bringing the total to six for the day.

An undetermined number of persons suffered wounds. Authorities said the situation was again grave. Four were killed this morning when police and troops cleared all the disturbed areas using tanks to fatten barricades.

The rioters are mostly unemployed, incensed at a reduction in city dole payments.

Among 50 taken to a hospital earlier, the condition of six was said to be hopeless.

NEW PRISON AT STATEVILLE IS PLAN OF STATE

State Architect Has Started
Plans for New Cell Units

Springfield, Ill., July 7.—(AP)—Preliminary plans are being made for construction of a new prison unit in Illinois, to relieve overcrowding at the three penitentiaries at Joliet, Stateville and Chester.

Director A. L. Bowen of the department of public welfare today announced that tentative plans are for the building of an addition to the Stateville prison, near Joliet which for all practical purposes would be a separate penitentiary.

State Architect C. Herrick Hammond has started work on the project.

Bowen announced that the population of the two Joliet penitentiaries recently reached a peak of almost 5900 inmates. Several hundred inmates are sleeping on floors and all cells are overcrowded.

Will Be Overcrowded

To relieve overcrowding and cut construction costs, the welfare department is planning a new prison on property already owned by the state immediately west of Stateville, the west wall of which would divide the two units. There would be no communication between the two prisons.

The plan is that the other three sides of the new prison will be enclosed by cell houses, store house, closed by cell houses. Stateville's cold storage facilities, bakery, offices and general headquarters would serve both units.

Bowen said such an arrangement would reduce construction costs nearly a million dollars in providing accommodations for about 2000 additional male prisoners.

The new penitentiary would have its own dining hall and kitchen. Administration would be through a deputy warden responsible to the warden of the combined Joliet prisons.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

KEEPING TRACK OF ARTICLES STORED DURING SUMMER—

In packing away garments for the summer it is helpful to write on the wrapping what each package contains. Too, a list should be kept of these stored articles and their storage places so that they may be obtained quickly if they are needed. It saves a great deal of poking around in closets and upsetting careful arrangements.

The same principle should be used in packing luggage for summer vacations. It is helpful to have a list showing what the various bags and trunks contain, and to arrange things so that one can find articles needed immediately, another has "bulky" articles, and so on.

POINTERS ON PICNICS

A box of marshmallows tucked in the picnic basket will delight the youngsters who can toast them over a quickly made campfire. Chocolate and other candy bars stored in the ice box can be put to good use when assembling foods for the picnic supper.

RAINY NIGHT SUPPER

Hard cooked eggs, sliced, are made a tasty dish when added to a thickened tomato sauce, and the whole sprinkled with cheese and baked 20 minutes. This is good for evening refreshments or Sunday supper on a rainy night.

Announce Bechtolt-Scholl Engagement

Rev. and Mrs. George W. Bechtolt of Reedsburg, Wis., announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolina Mae, to Herschel E. Scholl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Scholl, Dixon, Ill.

The wedding will take place the latter part of August.

AMBOY GIRLS TO TOWER HILL CONFERENCE—

Misses Lois Smith, Betty Scott, Dorothy Nicholson, Lillian Elsenberger, Jean Aschenbrenner, and Leah Dyar of Amboy will go to Sawyer, Michigan next Wednesday to spend a week at Tower Hill conference. This is an annual conference of Congregational young people's societies. Mrs. Harold Putney will accompany the girls as chaperon.

Buffet Supper for Mrs. A. J. Noonan

Last evening Mrs. Joseph E. Miller and Mrs. Paul J. Fry charmingly entertained with a buffet supper and bridge honoring Mrs. A. J. Noonan of Chicago, sister of Mrs. Fry, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brady of Amboy, parents of Mesdames Fry and Noonan.

After the eight guests had enjoyed the daintily appointed supper at the Miller home, bridge was played at the Fry home, summer flowers being the attractive decorations. At bridge Miss Genevieve Cotter of Amboy won the favor for high honors, and Mrs. William Lafferty of Amboy won the consolation favor. Mrs. Noonan was awarded a pretty guest favor. The entire evening was one of much pleasure for everyone present.

Magic Flower

Miss Ruth Mayland of Chicago holds the more or less sacred night blooming cereus in her hands and explains the charm of this flower that blooms but for one hour, one night, each year. The roots of the cereus sometimes weigh as much as 25 pounds and are supposed by some native Mexicans to be a panacea for all pulmonary ailments when made into medicine. Its blooming is the occasion of a "fiesta," and one was held in the streets of the Mexican Village at the new World's Fair.

On Arising, Exercise; Walk to Work

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

Exercise, taken in moderation, does wonders for your skin, hair and figure. It is not only the way to health, but it's the direct route to greater beauty. Unless the doctor has advised against it, everyone who makes you gain weight should exercise for herself.

There are several types of exercise—the kind that you do in the morning to limber up muscles and get the body in shape for the day; those for reducing and the ones which make you gain weight in the right spots, and, of course, exercise that you do for pure pleasure, including golf, tennis, riding and swimming.

Everyone needs and should take the first kind of exercise. When you wake up in the morning, stretch legs, arms and waistline until you're really awake. Then bound out of bed, brush your teeth and do some simple setting-up exercises in front of an open window before stepping under the shower. Breathe deeply while doing them. You'll feel so much better that you'll want to walk to the office, which, as a matter of fact, is exactly what you should do, if the office isn't more than a mile away.

Walking is one of the easiest and most pleasant kinds of exercise. Get sensibly-heeled shoes and the walking habit and see how quickly your health and beauty improve!

Many Attended The King Reunion

Kings, Ill., July 7—Descendants of John King, pioneer Ogle county Scotch settler in whose honor this village was named, gathered at the old Richard King farm, now occupied by Henry King, one mile north of here, for the annual King family reunion yesterday. More than 80 persons were present.

Following a banquet at noon, officers were elected and plans made for the reunion on July 4 next year. Elmer Robbins, Stillman Valley, was elected president. Other officers include Francis King, of Kings, vice president, and Mrs. Ada Babcock, Flagg Center, secretary-treasurer.

Several letters from members of the family who are now located in distant parts of the world were read during the business meeting which was presided over by Mrs. Walter King, of Kings. A short program was also presented by youthful members of the family.

The only two living members of the original family, Mrs. Lucy King White, Ames, Ia., and Mrs. Mary King Robbins of Stillman Valley, daughters of John King, were present. These two pioneer residents of Ogle county, together with six brothers, were the founders of the present families who attended the reunion.

Many out-of-town persons were present at the reunion. These included Ellsworth King and Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor of Rockford; Mrs. Edna King Lewis of Grinnell, Ia.; Mrs. Ada King Lovett of Garden Grove, Ia.; the Henry Lovett family of Leon, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. King of Mideapolis, Ia., and more than a score of Ogle county residents including Miss Ella King, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ortel, Mrs. Josie Dutcher, Miss Emma Kline and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kline of Rochelle, and the Martin Petermans of Oregon.

Christopher Morley Talks of "Leonora in Chicago"

In a recent issue of The Saturday Review of Literature, in the entertaining column of the cultured Christopher Morley, the following article of interest was found, of interest to Chicago and numberless other friends, because the "Leonora," referred to is Mrs. Justin Dart, the former Ruth Walgreen.

Leonora in Chicago
Many readers remember Addison's delightful (and gently humorous) description of "A Lady's Library." In the person of Sir Roger De Coverley he gives us a glimpse of the books that a lady of quality, one Leonora, was reading in 1711.

I had long been hoping to persuade some modern Leonora to give us a truthful catalogue of her own private bookcase. Now Mistress R. D., a very contemporary young matron in Chicago, sends me an inventory of her favorite shelf. Here is her list, with her own comments: The Town, by Leigh Hunt.

Milne's By Way of Introduction. Portrait of a Lady, by Henry James Jr. Over the River. Ah Kins.

Sir Walter Scott's works. Living Authors; a gardenia pressed beneath its leaves. Hudson's Birds and Man. Peter's Miscellaneous Studies. Oxford Companion to English Literature.

A Collegiate Dictionary. All Soul's Night. How to Live on 24 Hours a Day. Emerson's Essays.

Moliere's Works in French (with dusty tops). War and Peace. Ex Libris Caricatures.

Dr. Bunsen on Care of Babies. A number of books and about Lafayette Hearn.

Poems by Wordsworth, bound in red and brown leather; a beautiful gift.

Boswell's Life of Johnson. A set of British Essayists. Intrigues and Gallantries of Christine at the Court of Rome.

Arthur Rackham's Book of Pictures. Gardener's Encyclopedia. Saki's Chronicles of Clovis.

Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft (a precious first edition). The New Testament.

Books by R. L. Stevenson. Northanger Abbey. Emily Dickinson's Poems. Dr. Ames on Religion. Money Contract.

JAPAN COPIES AMERICA IN WAR AND PEACE!

An American newspaperman who is touring Japan this summer writes back that no other nation on earth is making quite such an effort to copy American manners and customs as is Japan.

Baseball has become Japan's national game, and every vacant lot in Tokio finds a game in progress. Tokio is the only world capital (outside of North America, at least) where you can get such peculiarly American delicacies as apple pie a la mode, elaborate ice cream sundaes, and old-fashioned pop.

The taxis and pleasure cars on Tokio's streets are largely American; the streets carry electric signs in the American style, there are typically American movie houses and taxi-dance halls, flappers dress in American style, business men sip American cocktails before dinner, and any Tokio restaurant can give you a T-bone steak cooked just as an American cook would prepare it.

This sort of thing is probably the froth on the surface of international relationships, to be sure; but a traveler who knew nothing of foreign affairs would be justified in leaping to the conclusion that between the United States and Japan there was a solid and unbreakable friendship that no threat of trouble could ever shatter.

The sad fact, of course, is that the reverse is true. When we lay down a new cruiser, or order a new fleet of bombing planes, we cock one eye in the direction of Tokio and the same thing happens over there.

In each nation there is an abundance of fear, suspicion and distrust of the other nation, and in the last few years the situation seems to have become worse instead of better.

All of which leads one to suspect that the whole business of international friendship is an illogical and incomprehensible puzzle.

And yet this eagerness on the part of the Japanese to adopt American gadgets, American habits, and American manners may, in the long run, prove to be a powerful and beneficial force.

The differences between the two nations are not, after all, fundamental things that arise from unchangeable traits in national characters. They come from temporary conflicts in national aspirations.

If trouble can be avoided for the next decade or so, this underlying friendship ought to get a chance to do its work.

At bottom, Japan wants to be friendly. Wise statesmanship can make it possible for that desire to be realized.

AN INJUSTICE OF WAR RIGHTED TOO LATE!

It will be a long time before the last human echoes of the World War finally die out.

Every so often we hear one of them—some little, long-forgotten fragment of personal tragedy tossed off by the great catastrophe—and when we do, we begin to understand why the old Romans and Greeks symbolized war as a personality, a God Mars or Ares, a clumsy and heavy-footed brute who tramped along heedless of the people he stepped on.

A French military court just the other day made final disposal of the cases of five soldiers who were shot in 1915 for mutiny.

These soldiers were members of a noted detachment of shock troops—the fifth company of the 63d infantry regiment, famous for its fighting qualities. But in the spring of 1915 things had gone badly with them, and they were pretty well fed up on the war.

The outfit had been in the St. Mihiel sector, and had gone through a long, hard engagement that left it racked almost to exhaustion. It was drawn out, the ranks were refilled with raw recruits—and then, instead of getting a breathing space, in which morale and discipline could be renewed, it was sent right back into action.

The reason was simple. The situation at the front was bad; shock troops could not be spared. So the war-weary 63d went back into the line, to face a bombardment even worse than the one from which it had just emerged.

The veterans lost their energy; the recruits were stunned, almost paralyzed with fear.

Orders came for a charge—and the Fifth company refused to move. So the military machine moved to punish it for mutiny. The company officers ordered one man chosen by lot from each squad to pay the penalty. Five soldiers were chosen, marched off to a military court—and executed by a firing squad.

Nineteen years later widows of two of these men got the case reviewed. And the French army command decided that an injustice had been done. It held that the 1915 court should have been lenient, and that it was unfair to make five men, chosen by lot, suffer for the whole company. So the dead men, at last, have been exonerated.

To be exonerated 19 years after you have been executed must be pretty cold comfort. The whole story is a revealing commentary—not on the blindness of any particular set of officers, but on the ruthless and impersonal way in which any war machine must occasionally trample justice and personal rights under foot.

No task today is more honorable and important than the struggle for peace.—I. M. Maisky, Soviet Ambassador to Great Britain.

Hitler? I Hope a Murderer's Bullet Gets Him!

"If there are any more murders I hope it will end in the killing of Hitler. He is a very dangerous man." Such was the outspoken opinion of Clarence Darrow who, as chairman of the American Inquiry Commission on Social Changes in Germany, presided at an unofficial "trial" at which witnesses arraigned Germany's Nazi regime. Darrow is shown at right with George A. Medalla, commission member, studying a newspaper which was exhibited as a German anti-Jewish publication.

The bunch heard Mother Hubbard sigh, and to her little dog said, "I am very sorry, Fido, but I have no food for you. Just stand right up and look in there. You'll see that my big cupboard's bare. Of course, I know you're hungry, but there's nothing I can do."

The dog just whinnied and hung his head. Then Scouty to the Times said, "Gee, here's where we can do an act of kindness, if you're game."

"Now, all look in and you will see, the dog's as hungry as can be. The poor thing really looks quite sad. I'm mighty glad we came."

"For goodness sakes, what can we do?" asked Doty. "It is up to you to see what it's all about. Then maybe we'll agree."

"Well," Scouty said, "we have our beef, and it would bring the dog relief. I'll gladly give my share to him. How happy he will be."

"Why, so will I," cried Doty.

When Mother Hubbard found out what they wanted, she said, "Thanks, a lot! This saves the day for my poor dog. I didn't have a cent."

The beef was then tossed to the bound, and while the Times stood around, old Fido slunk right down and feasted to his heart's content.

Soon Copy cried, "Look toward the west. With more good fortune we'll be blessed, if what I wish for right now come true. There's Mother Goose!"

"She's on a goose, and traveling fast. I hope she doesn't sail on past. I'm wishing that she'll land, and tell us something new to do."

(Mother Goose has a surprise for the Times in the next story.)

The Misses Edna Marie and Bernadine Potts and John Hilliard made a short stop here Sunday to visit friends, on their way home to Chicago.

Daily Health Talk

TUBERCULIN

The germ of tuberculosis was discovered by the German scientist, Robert Koch, in 1882. Then, for the first time in history, the specific cause of the White Plague was demonstrated.

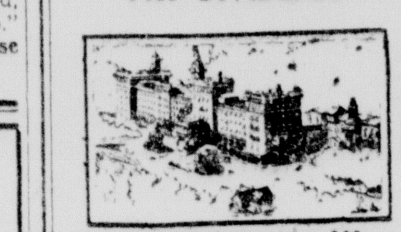

A few years later in 1890, Koch announced that he had succeeded in producing a substance which he believed capable of curing tuberculosis. This substance was tuberculin.

To his great disappointment and that of the world, tuberculin failed as a cure, nor have we since found anything in the nature of a specific remedy.

While tuberculin failed as a cure for tuberculosis it proved extremely useful in another respect. Tuberculin proved valuable as a means for determining whether an individual has become infected with tuberculosis.

Types of German Fighting Men

Men in uniform make up the picture of Germany today . . . (1) Typical Brown Shirt, one of the 400,000 "SA" storm troops of the Nazis, who helped lift Hitler to power . . . (2) A Reichswehr private, member of Germany's small but splendidly equipped and trained regular army . . . (3) A Berlin demonstration of Stahlhelm (Steel Helmets), war veterans' organization of somewhat older men, monarchistic and conservative in tone . . . (4) A member of the "SS," or Schutzstaffel troops, a picked Nazi bodyguard of some 20,000 men, wearing black rather than brown, carefully selected as the cream of Nazi civilian soldiery . . . (5) Regular police, under federal control and armed when necessary in military style to supplement troops.

Living Our Everyday Lives

PEOPLE'S PROVERBS

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

Every people has some proverb about itself, in which it sums up its own pride and prowess, and these sayings make an interesting study, as showing what people value most.

All of them make very illuminating, if rather slighting, remarks about their neighbors. As for example, the German saying, "Scratch a Russian and you find a Tartar," or the famous gibe, started by Napoleon, that "the English are a nation of shopkeepers."

But when they estimate themselves it is different, and naturally so, revealing the qualities, habits, traits and ways of thinking and judging of which they are secretly proud.

"Sparta needs no walls," tells of the valor of an ancient people, their confidence in their ability to defend their city, implying at the same time scorn of Athens with its high walls.

"An Englishman's house is his castle," points to that love of individual liberty and inviolable privacy which is the basis and glory of English life—a noble trait of a noble people.

"Irish and proud of it," shows a very worthy pride of an ancient and lovable race, though it may also suggest to some a lurking inferiority complex, if we look too closely at it.

"A Highlander and a gentleman," runs an old Gaelic proverb, meaning, no doubt, to identify the two terms; but it may also hint that, occasionally at least, the two may be separate.

"Every Catalonian has a king within him," comes to us from Spain, and it is one of the finest of all proverbs of a people about themselves. Yet even this claim of a hidden royalty leaves the rest of Spain the obvious retort, "But it seldom comes out." Still, as a basis for democracy, it is well-nigh perfect; for unless every man has a king within him self-rule is a fiction.

Is there any proverb in which Americans sum up themselves? If so, what is it? If not, is it not time to make one?

Government

WITH drastic changes taking place in the governments of nations, much attention is turned in these days to forms of government and to discussions of various types of government. People, somewhat bewildered by adversity and untoward conditions in their personal affairs, are prone to turn to their national government either with appeals for help or with condemnation. Some are looking for safety and security in government, while others are fearing the encroachment of government control.

Christian Science has much to say about government. Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, speaks often of God's government of man. She speaks of the endowment with life and intelligence of whatever is governed by God. "God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are self-government, reason, and conscience," she writes on page 196 of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and adds, "Man is properly self-governed only when he is guided rightly and governed by his Maker, divine Truth and Love."

Through the ages mortals have sought freedom from tyranny, freedom from slavery, freedom from oppression and depression, freedom from sin and from sickness. Christian Science strikes at the root of these evils, and helps weary people to find the realization of that state of being where man is governed by his creator—free from enslaving beliefs.

Sometimes a person is not aware of just what it is that is governing him. It may be fear of the future or grieving about the past that seems to cast a shadow over his mental outlook. It may be that some person with whom he is associated exercises much influence over him and presumes to govern his thinking and decisions. Or it may be that the responsibility for trouble and unhappiness is laid to business circumstances or family connections.

Whatever may be the seeming influence or unrighteous government, there is a way of escape and a means of correction. Christian Science gives the spiritual basis from which a person can learn how to have his thinking and his

Troop 67 Hosts to Nachusa Scouts at Outdoor Meet Here

Troop 107 of Nachusa played a return ball game with Troop 67 of Dixon at the Assembly Park Friday afternoon and Scoutmaster E. N. Bowers Scouts were able to avenge by one run a one-sided defeat administered them on Monday at Nachusa. However, the Nachusa Orphanage Scouts claim another victory would have been easy for them if they had had two of their stars who were absent in the lineup. Another game is to be played on neutral grounds in the near future.

Both troops assembled on the river bank after the game and gathered around a big camp fire for the regular meeting of Troop 67.

County Commissioner Enos Keithley was present and called on the great Indian Spirit to kindle the camp fire. He then gave the Scouts several legends of the Indians that once roamed the same river bank on which the boys were assembled and displayed and explained his collection of arrow heads and points, all of which were found around Dixon.

Troop 67 enjoyed having the Nachusa Scouts as visitors and look forward to another visit from them. Another big outdoor meeting is planned for Troop 67 next week, which is a little out of the ordinary but their Scoutmaster would not reveal his plans, but he assured the boys they had all better be on hand.

Great Gathering of Scouts at Rockford Camp August 20-22

Boy Scouts from 5,000 troops in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan will open a huge three day camp program Aug. 20 at Camp Grant, near Rockford.

BROADCASTS OF PLAYS NEW IDEA AT THE AIRPORT

Was Inaugurated Friday Evening for City League Games

In the first game of a City League double-header last night at the Airport, featured by the play-by-play broadcasts of Frank (Ted Husing) Gorham and Neil (Graham McNamee) Reagan, Knuck's Leaders beat the Dementtown Merchants, 5 to 3. Knuck's scored two runs in the first, two in the third and one in the sixth off Morris pitching, while Dementtown got their three runs on two errors and a home run by G. Riley in the sixth inning.

DeMolays Ran Wild
 The DeMolays ran away with the A & P's in the climax by a score of 13 to 1, being quite docile until the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, when they scored two, four and seven runs respectively. The DeMolays collected thirteen hits off Cooper's pitching, but the A & P's could solve Worley's offerings for only four.

WHEN SARAZEN PLAYS THE PITCH, HIS TOES ALMOST PAINT AT RIGHT ANGLES TO THE DIRECTION LINE.

In a foregoing article, it was stated that many star golfers do not lift the left heel in the backswing for the pitch shot.

In trying to copy this style, many golfers find it difficult to bring the body around.

I would advise the player to stand with the feet a bit closer together, and to turn both feet very slightly toward the ball so that they almost point at right angles to the line of flight. This will allow the left knee to bend in toward the ball and enable you to complete the back swing.

TERRY, MANUSH RETAIN LEADS OVER HITTERS

Lou Gehrig of Yankees Made Good Gain During Past Week

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Although Bill Terry of the Giants and Heinie Manush of the Washington Senators lost seven percentage points each during the past week they retained the batting leadership of the National and American leagues.

Lou Gehrig, the Yankees' bombarding first sacker, was the biggest ground gainer of the week. He hit safely 14 times out of 30.

First Cabin Located

Prof. L. B. Neighbour, County Surveyor, of Dixon; H. W. Helmershausen of this place, surveyed the grounds around Iron Springs, to locate the "Noe house" — the first building erected in the Franklin Grove area. Miss Adella Helmershausen, Harriet and Ethel Sheap were in the party.

According to Charles Helmers-hausen, Jr., the Noe's first located on the bottom land east of Iron Springs 80 rods from the H. W. Helmershausen residence, and according to S. C. Helmershausen the cabin was built in the upland north and east of the spring. Both of these sites were located. Excavation showed burnt stone from a fireplace. It is the intention to mark the cabin location permanently. Jeppha and Cummings Noe built the "Noe house" in September 1835 and moved in before winter set in. There were four cabins east of Lighthouse and none nearer than Dixon. Mrs. Neighbor is a grandniece of the Noe pioneers. The Hussey, Whitney and Helmershausen families lived in the cabin until they could build on their own land. Erosion and time have changed the location of Iron Springs, but the water is still cold and clear.

China Township Out of Mud

June 28th was a red letter day for not only China township but for Highway Commissioner Horace Dysart and his helpers who have worked for years in an effort to get China township out of the mud. On the above date the last hard road in the township was completed. Eleven extra men have been at work the past two weeks to hasten the completion of the work. Instead of getting machinery to do the work, Mr. Dysart hired men, which was certainly very commendable, and did much good to the men and their families.

Presbyterian Notes

TALKIES

Western Electric's Latest Achievement in the Perfection of Sound.

TALKIES REVOLUTIONIZED BY WIDE RANGE

- RANGE OF PITCH DOUBLED—Heretofore many high and low notes were impossible to reproduce. Wide Range brings out sounds you've never heard in talkies before.
- LIFE-LIKE VOICE QUALITY—With Wide Range you hear your favorite stars' voices as they actually are . . . just as if they were right in front of you . . . in person!
- METALLIC TONES GONE—Wide Range banishes that unpleasant "tinny" quality of voice and music . . . No distortion . . . No interlocking and overlapping of tones!
- INSTRUMENTS NEVER BEFORE HEARD—Such as the xylophone, cymbals, triangle, tympani and snare drums—now heard as clearly as in a solo, with Wide Range. Organ tones vastly improved.
- SOUNDS NEVER BEFORE HEARD—The fall of a leaf . . . the untruffled crash of thunder . . . the softest footstep . . . the shuffling of cards . . . Wide Range reveals all in their true actuality!
